Cancer can be a game changer, but not a deal breaker

There are options for becoming a parent after cancer.

- If you were able to undergo fertility preservation methods (i.e. egg preservation) you can explore using IVF to carry a pregnancy.
- If you were unable to preserve eggs and are not capable of doing so, you may choose to work with an egg donor. However, you may still be able to carry your child to term.
- If your cancer has affected your ability to carry a child, you may choose to work with a surrogate (gestational carrier). You may or may not require the assistance of an egg donor as well.

You should speak to your oncologist and/or a reproductive endocrinologist (some of whom are specialists in oncofertility) to determine what would be the best option for you.

An All-Inclusive Cost Program

We're the only agency to offer an all-inclusive cost program – that truly is “all inclusive” – to help parents plan financially for their journey.

Our Journey Protection Guarantee Program is the most comprehensive cost program available for intended parents. The JPG Program covers all non-IVF professional fees, all surrogate fees and reimbursements and all insurance costs for pregnancy, labor and delivery. Plus, it offers:

- Coverage for unlimited transfers and any complications that may arise during the journey.
- 100% refund of our agency fee if you have no embryos remaining and do not bring home a baby.
- No surprise costs or invoices.

We offer a variety of family-building programs including: surrogacy only, surrogacy plus egg donation, egg donation only and surrogacy with your own surrogate.

The surrogacy process with Circle

The surrogacy process is comprised of milestones that mark your journey to parenthood. Prospective parents interested in growing their families through surrogacy are encouraged to work with an agency like Circle Surrogacy to ensure a safe, legal and organized arrangement.

Here's what our process looks like:

- Complimentary consultation.

During this session, you share your story with us, and what brought you to surrogacy. On our end, we'll walk you through the program details and legal framework.

- Your dedicated team. Once you sign on, you'll be assigned a Journey Coordination team to support you through every step of the process.

- Surrogate and egg donor (if needed) matching.

We'll help match you with women who meet your criteria, and share your beliefs and hopes for family building.

- Pregnancy. We'll guide you through the pregnancy, assist with legal work and help prep you for the arrival of your baby.

- Ongoing support. You're part of the Circle family, and our support doesn't stop once your baby is in your arms. We'll continue to offer guidance when you need it.

Why you should grow your family with Circle

We're invested in you, and your journey, and we promise to be beside you every step of the way:

- We are proud to work with straight and LGBTQIA+ singles and couples from all over the world, to help them grow their families.
- We promise you'll be emotionally and legally cared for and protected.
- Our process is flexible, and customized to meet your needs.

Family is our inspiration

We're an agency comprised of social workers and lawyers, accountants and outreach associates, and program managers and coordinators; but, more importantly, we're an agency made up of parents, surrogates and egg donors through our program, who are passionate about helping people build their families. In fact, 40% of our staff has personal experience with surrogacy and egg donation.

We understand the challenges that come with parenthood and survivorship. In fact, we have two cancer survivors on staff who are parents through surrogacy and always happy to share their stories.
